Unfortunately, players will not be able to purchase the ammo in large stacks. 14 RSASS Like the M1A, the RSASS is a comparable single fire model with 762x51 caliber rounds. Both are powerful, accurate, and fun to use. Based on stats and performance alone, the VEPR is the top carbine at the moment. All Tarkov players can have success using the following weapons, which are ranked from worst to best. It has good accuracy, controllable recoil, and enough ammo to deal with multiple enemies. One well-placed shot to the head is sometimes enough to take out players in the early game. PMCs that are using the other snipers should give this weapon a try. There are also a lot of people in the community that enjoy fighting in the vast open landscapes with a variable sniper. It has a max fire rate of 700 RPM, and a maximum range of 700 meters. Several of the Tarkov pistols can be difficult to aim, but the FN is laser-accurate. While it is understandable to prefer the other options, the Vector will be the top SMG for most users. The base ergonomics on the weapon are good, but adding +10 can be useful. 15 M1A The M1A is a 762x51 caliber semi-automatic rifle. The pistol has large 20 round magazine and packs a punch up close. NEXT: Escape from Tarkov Update Adds WW2 Weapons Twitch Streamer and YouTuber Kika Has Died at Age 21 Popular Serbian Twitch streamer and YouTuber Kristina 'Kika' Dukic, known for her high-level CS:GO play, dies at the age of 21. Instead, the caliber of the gun, as well as the fire rate determine the time to kill. 7 M700 Unlike the DVL-10, the M700 can be modified. 4 M4A1 In the community, the M4 is probably the most popular pick for an assault rifle. Escape from Tarkov is now in its fourth year, giving players a lot of time to test out the many weapons in the game. It is one of the few beginner weapons that has a one-shot potential. 8 PP-19-01 This list had to include the PP-19 because of how simple it is to set up. With a meta build, the M1A can have 50+ ergonomics and controllable recoil. 13 AS VAL It is not as dominant as it once was, but the AS VAL will still shred through enemies in Tarkov. It has a high fire rate of 900 rpm, which makes it forgiving at close range. With just a few decent modifications, the AKMN can be spec'd to have 60+ ergo and vertical control. The best guns to use in Tarkov will depend on a number of factors. Because of the damage the HK does, it had to be included in this list. Both weapons have the same fire rate, but the RSASS has a longer range by 200 meters. At short to medium range, no other SMG will have a chance. 9 FN 5-7 The FN 5-7 is the best pistol in Tarkov. The KS-23 works well on smaller maps and as a close-quarters support weapon in buildings and hallways. Since it has emerged as one of the viable competitive assault rifles. The HK does more damage per shot than the MDR and it fires faster than the M4. This means that customization plays a huge role in the game. The gun is accurate, has enough bullet velocity, and feels much better than the other options in-game. Because of the FN's one-shot potential, many consider it one of the best weapons in Tarkov. However, bullet velocity will make it difficult to connect with targets more than 50 meters away. One of the most prevalent is playstyle. At extended distances, however, it will be hard to hit targets without tapping the trigger. The following list includes the top weapons in the game without focusing on a particular map or playstyle. It has controllable recoil, decent damage, and a fast enough fire rate for close-quarters combat. While the gun may not be the most powerful, it is as pinpoint accurate as any SMG after the first few bullets. The HK is one of the best weapons in Tarkov. Thankfully, there are plenty of attachments that reduce horizontal recoil substantially. There are far too many variations of attachments, but as long as gamers reduce the horizontal bounce and increase ergonomics, the M1A will be a powerful weapon. Players that are sniping will love having this mini destroyer in their back pocket. At the same time, certain combinations can boost horizontal control to nearly 200. PMCs that prefer PVP will often want to be up close and personal with an SMG in hot zones. Any top-tier build for the gun will focus on controlling recoil, as the AS VAL has a noticeable kick. Anyone that enjoys hitting precision shots with single fire rifles will want to give these guns a try. 3 VEPR Hunter In FVP, the VEPR will dominate on essentially every map. Gamers of any skill level can pick it up and feel comfortable challenging enemies at most ranges. 1 HK 416A5 The M4 and MDR are two other really good options in the assault rifle class. This will give people more slots for horizontal and vertical recoil control. Despite being a close-range secondary, the AS VAL has a decent effective range. The MK-18 can down players in just one shot, and it is one of the most enjoyable weapons to use in Tarkov. On the maps that encourage early game movement, the VEPR is a menace. It has a moderate fire rate of 600 RPM, but with .762 ammunition, that isn't much of an issue. Based on the rpm and caliber alone, the MCX is a great automatic rifle that can be dominant with the right attachments. With the proper build, people can get anywhere from 100-150 horizontal control. Because of the accessibility issues with the weapon, it is probably better to run the Vector 9X19. With mods, the weapon is very good. The weapon is incredibly easy to use, especially for players that have logged less than 100 hours on the game. 12 MCX The MCX was added to Tarkov at the beginning of 2021. Gamers can pair the M700 with the KS-23 and decimate PMCs in raids. 10 KS-23 New players can get their hands on the KS-23 relatively early in their gameplay experience. With only a Cobra Reflex, this weapon will perform very well in game. With the right build, each of them can compete with the expensive meta guns in-game. Ergonomics will not be as much of a concern with the RSASS, as 30+ will feel good enough. What really sets apart the AKMN is attachments. Skilled players can even run through raids without a secondary weapon. Vertical recoil should be reduced somewhat, but anywhere from 40-50 should do the trick. Because of how realistic gunplay in Tarkov is, it only takes a few bullets to kill an enemy PMC. Getting horizontal recoil above 90 will be one of the most important stats to focus on. Related Topics About The Author Payton Lott (438 Articles Published) More From Payton Lott Gamers will be hard-pressed to find a gun that is more satisfying to get a kill with. Conservative players will often lean toward a versatile option like the M4A1 5.56. This updated list includes 5 such weapons. Attachments and modifications can make a mediocre weapon one of the best guns in Tarkov. Meta builds will have 90+ horizontal control, 40+ vertical control, and 30+ ergonomics. Finding the AP SX ammo for the MP7 can be a pain though. However, the slight edge has to go to the MK-18 because of the beautiful sound it makes every time a round exits the chamber. The controllable .762 assault rifle is an excellent weapon for any player. Players that are new to the game or tired of wasting Roubles on expensive builds should test the gun out. The M4 is a common weapon in the game because it is a reliable weapon. 11 AKMN People in the community have long considered the AKMN as an A-tier choice. The gun has incredible damage and accuracy, even without a sight. The primary advantage the Vector has over the other SMGs is range and consistency. 2 MK-18 In the Carbine/DMR class, the VEPR Hunter and MK-18 are the top options. 6 MP7A1 The MP7 is unquestionably an S-tier gun. The Vector and MP7 are neck and neck, but the Vector is easier to acquire and gamers will have no problem stocking up on ammo. The Vector can fire at extended ranges the other SMGs cant. Players that have a quick trigger finger will be able to get the most out of this weapon. Likewise, a 400-meter damage range is irrelevant, as hitting shots at those ranges will be nearly impossible. Updated on August 20, 2021 by Payton Lott: Unlike most first-person shooters, Tarkov does not have different damage values for each weapon. With just one headshot, the FN can take players out of the game early in a raid. One of the main advantages of using the pistol are its iron sights. The SMG has a fast fire rate, acceptable accuracy, and a decent size magazine. It may feel cheap, but it is in the game, so why not use it. 5 Vector 9X19 With the right attachments, the Vector is the most dominant SMG in Tarkov. It is hard to differentiate between the two guns. With an 800 rpm fire rate and base .762 ammunition, the MCX packs a punch. Players will still prefer the MP7 or Vector, but the AS VAL is a reliable choice. Besides, users should be tap firing at more than 50 meters anyway. It may take a more skilled player to use the HK properly, but it is better than the other assault rifles. A lot of people are using the gun right now because of how unfair it can be at times. As a result, it has a ton of kick. Gamers that get killed using the weapon will most likely only lose a sight because no one loots the PP-19 for some reason. The bolt action sniper is a blast to use on maps with long sightlines like Woods and Shoreline.
